

Tale of Two Suns

Sophia Marmara

i drown softly beneath the waves, beyond the reach of mortal sight.
choking on the hallow echos
of my own undoing.

i am two suns—
one devouring,
one dimming,
both burning,
both burdened,
too close to survive each other's light.